

Saïd Dawlabani

Mr. Dawlabani is The Chief Operating Officer of the Center for Human Emergence Middle East. A real estate developer turned social entrepreneur. He has a prominent 25-year career in the brokerage, development and investment counseling sectors of the real estate industry. He structured complex asset disposition strategies for notable clients such as the Resolution Trust Corporation, the FDIC, US Bankruptcy Court and the Bank of New England. In addition to his development and brokerage work in Boston, Scottsdale, and San Diego, he advises a select circle of clients on long-term investment strategies. In recent years Mr. Dawlabani has been applying his vision to build sustainable capacities in people as well as sustainable habitats

His Boston firm, Symphony Properties advised prominent real estate investment firms such The Hamilton Realty Group, Special Places International, and MCO Properties just to name a few. He's a recipient of many industry recognitions and awards in the areas of community service and historic restorations.

Mr. Dawlabani is the CEO of Dawlco Development Group, which was among the pioneers to introduce the commercial condominium concept to Arizona where he specialized in this type of development for years. His focus in the last few years has been in the residential development area of "Affordable Luxury". His firm has developed a niche in building luxury homes for under $1M by seeking out pockets of infill land in affluent Arizona communities

For years Mr. Dawlabani studied the Integral approach to solving world problems and has been an advocate of Dr. Don Beck's work world wide and in the Middle East specifically as he sees his theoretical framework as the only comprehensive approach that will bring lasting peace and prosperity to the region.